50th Anniversary

Early History

Northeastern University is the outgrowth of a progressive development of the educational work begun by the Boston Y.M.C.A. in 1851.

In 1896 Frank Palmer Speare was engaged as a teacher and Director of the Department of Education of the Y.M.C.A. Following his appointment, the Evening Institute for Young Men was organized and steps were immediately taken to set up instruction on a departmental basis and to improve the courses offered.

School of Law - 1898

Considerable interest in evening study of the law was evidenced, and the School of Law was formally established in 1898. Since this was the first school organized with a complete program for education in a particular field of work, Northeastern University takes its date of establishment from the date of organization of the School of Law. This step marked the departure from the offering of supplementary courses of study.

School of Business - 1907

The evening School of Commerce and Finance was established in 1907, and the first degrees of Bachelor of Commercial Science and of Master of Commercial Science were conferred in 1911. The name of this school was later changed to its present title—the School of Business.

Day Colleges - 1909

The first day school in what is now Northeastern University came with the development of the idea of Co-operative Education at the college level. The Co-operative School of Engineering—second in the United States to adopt this idea—admitted students for the first time in 1909. This school later became the College of Engineering.

The day College of Business Administration was established in 1922; in 1935 the liberal arts departments of the Day Colleges were organized as the present College of Liberal Arts.

Northeastern University as an entity

In 1916 the various day and evening schools, brought together under a single administration, were incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts.

The following year, Frank Palmer Speare was inaugurated as the first President of the College, a position which he held until his retirement in 1939.

After the first World War, branches of Northeastern were established in several New England cities under the supervision of the college officials in Boston. This development was gradually abandoned, however, until at the present time the only work of this type is an evening school of business in Springfield.

As the college curricula grew in number and in scope, with increasing enrollments and expanding physical plant, it became obvious that for the most effective development of the educational program on the one hand and of the Y.M.C.A. on the other, there should be a separation of the two institutions. A series of legal steps were taken, the name was changed from College to University in 1922, and Northeastern came of age.

Northeastern University is now an autonomous institution with its own corporation, board of trustees, and faculty, and with authority to grant all degrees commonly conferred in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts except medical and dental degrees.

In 1940 Carl Stephens Ell, who had been Vice-President in charge of the Day Division since 1925, became President of the University, and Dr. Speare was made President Emeritus.

From its inception in 1898, Northeastern has grown from one school to five degree-granting schools and colleges and three special-type affiliated schools.

Northeastern's Plant Growth

The first home of what is now Northeastern University was in a building at the corner of Berkeley and Boylston Streets. When this was destroyed by fire in 1910, the work of the University was carried on in different rented areas with headquarters in a frame building on the site of the present City Club.

At one time the Student Activities Office and certain classes occupied the third floor of the Gainsboro Building and later the second floor of the Huntington Building. Northeastern has always occupied the East Wing of the Y.M.C.A. Building and the building now known as Botolph Building.

In 1929 the University purchased its first property on Huntington Avenue. Other parcels were later acquired to make up the present eight-acre site. The Beacon Hill property, housing the School of Law, and the Huntington Athletic Plant on Kent Street, Brookline were also added to the Northeastern plant.

In 1934 plans were drawn for the development of the future Northeastern University Plant on Huntington Avenue. Richards Hall was completed and occupied in 1938, and three years later Science Hall was built.

In 1946 the cornerstone was laid for the Student Center, the third building in the new plant, and the building was occupied in September 1947.

On the Huntington Avenue site, the University plans to erect three more buildings —a library and classroom building, a physical education plant, and a building for the School of Law.

The total assets of the University have increased to over five million dollars; Northeastern now has a home of its own with definite plans to take care of its ever-increasing family.

A Message to the Class of 1950

Yours has not been the traditional, orderly college course progressing continuously from freshman to senior year. For most of you, the work has been accelerated; you had to drop your college programs at varying stages, spend from one to four years in the armed services, and then come back to pick up the broken threads of formal education.

You are going out into a world that is filled with confusion—a world in which the need for leadership is no longer academic but acute; your generation is faced with an unparalleled challenge.

Many of you know from actual observations abroad that you are fortunate to be living in America. You are also privileged to have had the opportunity to get a college education.

Your mental capacity, your trained intellect, your heritage of American birth, and your youth all place upon you duties and responsibilities. To help you meet this challenge, I point out the following guideposts:

First, I hope you will think of your education itself—your trained mind—as an asset which is yours forever, which cannot be taken from you, and which can be improved and increased in quality and scope from year to year.

Second, hold to your own ideals. Let others scoff, if they will, because you reach for the stars; but aim high and hold to your aim.

Third, William James once said that men habitually use only a small part of the powers which they possess. Let it never be said of you that you failed to succeed in life because you did not use your full ability.

It will be for you to decide how you will use the greatest asset which you will ever have—a trained mind. The old virtues of honesty, courage, and sincerity are just as important today as they ever were; in fact, the less evident they seem, the more important it is that college men and women hold them in high regard.

You will, I am sure, meet life's challenge in a way that will make us all proud.

Class Adviser

We wish to take this opportunity to thank Professor Ernest L. Spencer, our class adviser, for his counsel, assistance, and friendship throughout our college career and to express our appreciation to him for his efforts in making our class activities successful.

Professor Spencer has had the difficult task of serving as adviser, for the second time within seven years, to a war-accelerated class affected by frequent changes.

Professor Spencer was born May 17, 1913, in Norwood, Massachusetts, and he now resides in Medfield with his wife and son. He graduated from Northeastern University in 1936 with a degree of Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering. He then did special work in structural design at the Franklin Institute during the years 1936 and 1937. In November, 1943, Professor Spencer received his Master of Science degree from Harvard University.

Professor Spencer came to Northeastern as Instructor in Civil Engineering in 1939 and was appointed Assistant Professor of Civil Engineering in September, 1944.

In addition to his work here at the University, Professor Spencer is an active member of both the American and Boston Societies of Civil Engineering, and is also secretary of the Junior Association of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Northeastern Section. Recently he has become associated with the American Concrete Institute.

Before coming to Northeastern, Professor Spencer served as the chief of a surveying party with E. M. Brooks Company. He was Junior Engineering Aide for one year with the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, Waterways Division. In 1938 he transferred to Jackson and Moreland, where he served as Assistant Engineer on construction work for two years.

CLASS HISTORY

Two hundred and six students, labeled 1950A and including forty-three veterans and eight coeds, began the Freshman year in March, 1945, to become the nucleus of the Class of 1950. Their numbers were augmented by 189 new Freshmen in June ('50B) and 513 in September ('50C), plus returning veteran Middlers in the fall of 1946. Climaxing the first series of class meetings, which featured campaign speeches by all the candidates, the following persons were elected to head the class: President Stanislaus Zbozen, Vice-President Olaf Johnson, Secretary Marjorie Black, and Treasurer Howard Cohen.

Several members of the class entered student activities early in their Freshman year by taking part in the Dramatic Club's production of "The Cherry Orchard," helping on the Omega Sigma's first servicemen's dance, attending Northeastern Night at Pops, and supporting the Student Council All-University Fun Festival in June. Northeastern was honored at this time when the Maritime Commission named a Victory Ship for the University, and two Northeastern engineers won first and second prizes at the annual conference of the New England branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, topping entrants from M.I.T. and Tufts.

During the summer of 1945 the adviser to women married and became Mrs. Louise Marsh Roberts, so the coeds welcomed Miss Elizabeth Oelschlegel as their new adviser. The first social get-together of the class was a Class of '50 Reception held in the Commons in September, when for the first time the three sections of the class had a chance to mingle. The following month the class colors, red and white, were presented to the 1950 president at the Senior Dance.

In October, the first Mothers and Daughters Tea was conducted in the Commons by Omega Sigma. The main event of the first year, however, was a semi-formal dance in the Hotel Statler Salle Moderne, planned by the officers with the assistance of the Freshman Cabinet: Thomas Duffy, Melvin Bressler, John Domenico, Sylvia Goldstein, Daniel Miller, Anthony Spero, and George Stockman.

On December 1, 1945, Dean William T. Alexander became the Dean of the College of Engineering. Leadership of the college was taken over from Dean William C. White, who then became Director of the Day Division.

Again in January, 1946, several members of the class took part in a Dramatic Club offering, "George Washington Slept Here." Varsity sports and honor societies which were dormant during the war were reactivated; the News began the story of the man in the street, johannes t. bok; the varsity track squad won the annual N.E.A.A.A.U. track and field meet; and the class held its second election. Victors among the enterprising candidates who aspired for class leadership were: President Stan Zbozen, Vice-President Daniel Miller, Secretary Muriel White, and Treasurer Lila Sweet.

Ground breaking exercises for the Student Center Building took place on March 11, 1946, and the class watched the progress of the building through the laying of the cornerstone to its completion. The Hotel Statler Georgian Room was the scene of the class dance during this month. The successful dance was again planned and carried out by the class officers with the help of the Sophomore Cabinet.

A protest meeting against a University announcement that they must participate in the co-op plan was staged by the 1950C coeds on the steps of Richards Hall in April. The Northeastern Public Speaking Contest made its first post-war appearance, the Dramatic Club presented two one-act plays, "The Boor" and "Riders to the Sea," and many members of the class were assuming responsible positions around the school. Paul Daston was elected persident of the Student Union; Bob Johnson, catcher on the Varsity Baseball Team, was chosen to play that position on the Eastern All-Star Team in the annual East-West game; Marjorie Black became News Editor and was toastmistress at the Omega Sigma banquet given in honor of the first graduating class which contained coeds; and Jordan Pearlson was chosen to head the Dramatic Society.

Most of the class continued studying through the summer of 1946. By this time the class had grown to gigantic proportions. After much computation and drawing of graphs, it was discovered that sections A and B had accelerated enough to be ready for graduation in February, 1948, while section C, following the normal course of co-operative work, would be studying until June, 1949. Consequently, the classes and treasury were divided and sections A and B completed plans for the Middler Dance at the Hotel Vendome in November, 1946. After the wartime lapse, football had been resumed, and all members of the Varsity squad were guests at this dance.

Class elections were also held in the fall of 1946. Laurence K. Redgate, uncontested candidate for the post, assumed the office of president. His running mates included Vice-President Charles Spear, Secretary Edith Hughes, and Treasurer Albert Cullen. During this semester David Abbott became Editor-in-Chief of the News, "Moose" Makris was elected captain of the football team, and Marjorie Black traveled West to attend the Chicago Student Conference. The Hus-Skiers, headed by Thornton Cody sponsored a New Hampshire ski week-end which was attended by more than 150 persons. Hockey was also resumed as a winter sport.

The highlight of the year was the gala Junior Prom dinner and dance, featuring Johnny Long's orchestra, which was held at the Copley Plaza Hotel in May, 1947. Because of the great amount of planning for this event, the officers elected in the Middler year were retained. Members of the Middler and Junior cabinets who worked on the Junior Prom were: Marjorie Black, Joseph Courtney, Paul Daston, Robert Fine, Shirlee Gates, Charles Kezer, Thomas Lovett, Warren Lum, James Nelson, John Nelson, Peter Sikalis, William Spurr, Alexander Webster, and Stanislaus Zbozen.

A hotly contested election during the first few weeks of the Senior year in September, 1947, was the subject of many Senior bull sessions. After several class meetings and recounts of the ballots, the results were officially announced and the class found that it had five officers: President Charles Spear, two Vice-Presidents—Jack Indeck and David Abbott, Secretary Lois Ann Brady, and Treasurer John LeGrys.

Senior Week, which was planned by a cabinet composed of Howie Dean, Dick MacDonald, Pete Sikalis, Paul Deloid, Shirlee Gates, Roy Baxter, Marjorie Black, Connie Cockinos, Lennie Edlund, Edward Beal, Robert Erickson, and Thomas Connolly, included a barn dance, sleigh ride excursion, class section night, and a combination dance and nightspot evening.

On October 5, 1947, the Student Center Building was officially dedicated. The News went back to its pre-war custom of weekly publication, the Silver Masque's fall production of "Three Men on a Horse" was given in the new Alumni Auditorium.

The largest section of the class received their degrees on January 31, 1948 and two other graduations were held in April and June to complete the 50th graduation ceremonies. Northeastern had grown during our stay as students, and the class had grown with the university

Sigma Delta Epsilon, now known as the Sigma Society, was founded in 1925 by Dean Turner F. Garner as the honor society of the College of Business Administration.

The purpose of the Sigma Society is to promote acquaintanceship and good fellowship among the best intellects, strongest characters, and most distinct personalities in the college; to stimulate higher attainment in the student body, through the bearing, influence, and work of Sigma members; and to mould a high ethical code for the college as a whole, in preparation for work in the business world.

As an incentive to scholastic attainment the society grants a scholarship each year to the highest ranking business administration student in the Freshman Class.

The purpose of the Academy is to promote scholarly activity among the students of liberal arts and sciences. Part of the objective is stimulated by the offering of an annual scholarship to the highest ranking freshman in the College of Liberal Arts.

Founded in 1937, The Academy is the youngest of the honor societies. As in its brother organizations in the Colleges of Business Administration and Engineering, election to this society is based upon high standards of scholarship and character and is regarded as a high honor.

The purposes of Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honor society, are "to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America."

Since the establishment of the Massachusetts Epsilon Chapter here at Northeastern University in 1941, a varied program of activities aimed at attaining these objectives has been supported. Careful selection of members, sponsorship of an annual Chapel service, and a one hundred dollar award to the highest-ranking engineering freshman are regular features of this program. In addition, several well-known speakers are obtained each year to address the members, student body, and faculty at banquets, seminar series, and meetings.

BASEBALL 1947

By Dave Abbott

Northeastern's 1947 baseball team posted a 5 and 12 record in a season marked by errors and ill fortune. Prior to the season, great things had been expected of the team, but seldom, if ever, did the ball club live up to expectations.

Shattering a ten-year record, the Huskies dropped their opening game at Huntington Field against Harvard, 5-1. This was the first time that a Northeastern baseball team had lost its opener since 1936, and, strangely enough, it was the Crimson team that had last turned the trick.

Sophomore Bob Bagwell pitched well in the Harvard encounter, twirling no-hit ball for five and a third innings, but then the roof fell in. The Crimson put together a walk, three hits, and an error for four runs, and that was the ball game.

Two days later the Husky diamondmen bounced back with a victory over Mass State. Frank Watts chucked this game but needed help in the eighth from ambidextrous Frank Rosato. Frankie Rando tallied in the first on a long double by Capt. Joe Lynch, the latter scoring on Dave Churchley's single. Mass State rallied in the ninth, but the outburst fell short of a victory. Final score—N.U. 6, Mass State 3.

Following this victory, the Huskies entered a record-breaking seven-game losing streak. This was one of the longest victory famines in the history of Northeastern baseball. Included were two losses to both B.U. and Tufts, and one each to Maine, New Hampshire, and Connecticut.

B.U. bettered the Huskies at Nickerson Field on April 23 in near freezing weather, 10-5. The Gallaghermen outhit the Terriers, 11-9, but a big eight-run sixth inning was all that our cross town rivals needed for a victory.

In quick succession, the Main Bears tumbled the Huskies, 7-0; New Hampshire triumphed, 5-4; B.U. repeated with a 6-2 victory; Tufts won, 4-1; Connecticut walked away with a 14-1 victory; and the Jumbos came back with another win, 8-7. It should be added that the U-Conns game was at Storrs, on the afternoon following our Junior Prom, and the Huskies looked more bewildered than outplayed.

On May 15 the Bates Bobcats came into town, and Bob Bagwell scattered 5 hits over 9 innings to give the Huskies a win. Big sticker of the day was Frannie Matthews, who doubled and tripled in four official times at the plate. The play of the game went like this—in the eighth inning Bates had men on first and third, with nobody out. Bagwell put on the steam and struck out the next batter. The following man lifted a short fly to center field. Ben Wayler caught the ball after a long run and without hesitation let go a perfect throw to the plate, to nip the runner attempting to score from third. That was the only time that Bates threatened seriously. Final score—N.U. 7, Bates 0.

The Huskies won their next two games against New Hampshire and Lowell Textile, by scores of 7-2 and 8-3. Winning hurlers were Frank Rosato and second-baseman Charlie Curll. The latter, who will captain the 1948 team, had pitched some in high school days, and had stepped into the breach in this game when starter Gus Keegan ran into trouble. Curll allowed 2 hits in 8 innings, while the Huskies were pounding out 11 safeties.

Once again the diamondmen met disaster on the Main trip, losing two close ones—to Colby, 6-5, to Maine, 7-5. The Huskies took early leads in both games, but unearned runs for the opposition hurt badly. Colby's winning tally came on an unearned run after Joe Lynch had been ejected from the game for protesting a base umpire's decision too vehemently. Maine scored only one earned run out of their total of seven.

Back at the B.C. Heights, the Huskies caught fire and defeated the not-so-high-flying Eagles, 9-8. Slugger Steve Barmakian pounded out two tremendous home runs, and in the 10th inning Joe Lynch got a long triple, scoring the winning run on a fly ball by Jim Tallent. Catcher Bob Johnson was outstanding in this game, making four put-outs at the plate and cutting down runners on the base paths.

Finishing off the season in anything but grand style, the Huskies lost a 19-1 decision to the Colby Mules. This was the same team that had previously downed B.C., 21-5.

Following the close of the season, Joe Lynch signed with the Boston Red Sox and was immediately assigned to San Jose in the California State League.

There will be many holdovers for the 1948 season, and King Husky should once again be able to hold his head high among New England baseball opponents.

CROSS COUNTRY

By Morton Lutch

Led by Captain Payson Kenyon and crowned with a one point victory over Tufts and their national champ, Ted Vogel, the 1947 Cross Country team proved to be an in-and-out squad, winning three and losing three, and falling below pre-season expectations.

With Kenyon and seven veterans, including Dick Johnson and Ollie Girauard, who had been sidelined the previous season, and Harry Hart, back from the army, reporting to Coach Jerry Tatton, the team's outlook seemed promising at the beginning of the season. Although bothered by recurring cramps while running, Kenyon came through with two wins, but the veteran team proved only moderately successful.

The Huskies were defeated by the University of Massachusetts, 15-45, in their very first meet. Murray Goldman was the first NU man to finish, while Kenyon, Harry Hart, Cy Goldberg, and Charlie Billings completed the Red and Black scoring.

Northeastern came right back the next week, downing Bates at Lewiston by a 20-41 score. Kenyon and Kokidko finished first and second, while Hart, Billings, and Goldberg took fourth, sixth, and seventh places to complete the victory.

The steep inclines on the University of Connecticut course at Storrs next tripped the Huskies, the U-Conns beating the Tattonmen, 18-37. Kenyon, Goldman, Hart, Goldberg, and Johnson garnered points for Northeastern. At New Hampshire the following week, the NU team lost a tri-meet with New Hampshire and Maine; Goldman, Kenyon, Girauard, Hart, and Goldberg scoring for the Huskies.

Returning to home grounds, the Red and Black harriers went into the win column with a 19-39 victory over Worcester Tech. Kenyon won easily for NU, while Goldman, Kokidko, and Girauard tied for third, and Billings finished sixth.

In the final dual meet with Tufts, the NU team fought their way to a 27-28 win. Ace Jumbo distance runner Ted Vogel took the race, but Kenyon, Goldman, Billings, and Goldberg all ran their best races of the season and squeezed out the Tuftsmen.

Kenyon was slowed by cramps in the New Englands, and Northeastern could take only 15th place. Goldman, Girauard, Hart, and Goldberg all took points for Northeastern in this finale run.

At the banquet at the season's close, Kenyon was elected captain for the season, and Harry Hart was named captain for '48.

F O O T B A L L

By Paul Daston

The second postwar Husky squad assembled for its first practice on August 25. Instead of a squad composed predominantly of last year's veterans, it was found that fifteen athletes had dropped out of school for various reasons. This factor, coupled with the graduation last year of nine lettermen, made the prospect of a successful grid season improbable.

The coaching staff consisted of John Grinnell, Head Coach; Ecio Luciano, Line Coach; Al Zupek, Backfield Coach; and Herb Gallagher, Freshman Coach. They were assisted by Gus Rook, Assistant Freshman Coach, who scouted; and Larry Pratt, Northeastern's lone subway alumnus. The offensive formation remained the same, basically "T," although modifications and spread formations were added as the season progressed.

Summer class schedules of squad members cut sessions to afternoons only, and, with the early-September start of the fall term, that perennial curse of all Northeastern footballers, evening practice, was begun.

Two pre-season scrimmages, against Fargo Barracks and Worcester Polytech, found the squad full of fight, more than holding its own. Then, as the season commenced, came a heart-breaking series of injuries to key personnel, forcing the coaches to employ the DaGrosa system of compensations and adjustments up and down the line of scrimmage and in the backfield. These injuries cost the Huskies several scores—and possibly a couple of ball games.

The season's opener found N.U. journeying to Springfield, where a far superior Gymnast organization avenged its last year's loss by a lopsided score of 41-6. A pass from Jim Douglas to Deke Kerrivan accounted for the lone N.U. tally. Individual Husky standouts were Kerrivan, Herb Von Euw, and John Nason

At Orono the following week, the Huskies were clawed by the Golden Bears to the tune of 26-6. Maine dominated the play until the last quarter when, after a good fake by Von Euw into the line, Sam Musumeci scampered ten yards almost unmolested into the end zone.

Home at last, the Huskies opened against Devens. In this game, the N.U.ers broke their losing streak, winning 14-6. "Big Sid" Von Euw bulled his way to two touchdowns. Ever-dependable Larry Redgate blocked a Devens kick to account for a two-point safety.

Bates, the next opponent, came down from Maine to blight any Husky hopes of making it two in a row. It was an even game all the way, but N.U.'s inability to stop an intricate off-tackle play from the single-wing formation accounted for two touchdowns and the Bobcat victory, 12-0.

At Medford the succeeding Saturday, the much-publicized "Battle of the Coaches" took place. Johnny Grinnell, Husky Coach, is a graduate of Tufts, played for "Fish" Ellis, and the two are close personal friends. On the field there was no sentiment apparent as both teams battled for three periods, scorelessly, with the Huskies on the offensive. Finally, a N.U. fumble paved the way for a Tufts touchdown. The Huskies attempted to equalize via the airways, but a Tufts interception and runback added another score, the final count reading: 13-0. Curley and Glick played bang-up ball for Northeastern.

In the final game of their abbreviated season, the Huskies played host to undefeated New Hampshire. The Wildcats showed their superiority early, roaring to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter. The Huskies, slow to retaliate, parlayed a New Hampshire fumble and a sustained drive into paydirt, with Von Euw carrying from the one-foot line, just as the half ended.

In the third quarter, the Huskies drove again, deep into New Hampshire territory, but as the Wildcats held, the drive petered out and the visitors resumed their scoring, racking up a win going away, 55-6. Sid Glick, playing his last college game, gave a stellar performance in the line.

Unanimous Husky choice as standout of the year was an individual who played very little all season. By all the rules, he should not have dressed. But Captain George Makris, a starting tackle for three years, thought a captain's place was with his team and that's where he was. George, in spring practice, did severe damage to his knee, the same knee upon which he had been operated several times before. A blow or wrench in any session or game might have done irreparable damage. George knew this but worked constantly with the coaching staff and the team, attempting to head the squad. He was an inspiration to all with whom he came in contact. We are all proud of Captain George Makris.

Alumni Association

"The Greatest asset of any University is the loyalty of its Alumni"

The Northeastern University Alumni Association of the Day Colleges was founded in 1918, and is a member of the national organization, The American Alumni Council. Its officers and members consist of the graduates of the University's Day Colleges of Engineering, Business Administration, and Liberal Arts. There are over 6,000 alumni at present.

The alumni are organized to promote the welfare of Northeastern University, to establish a mutually beneficial relationship between the University and its alumni, and to perpetuate the friendships made by alumni while students at Northeastern.

The business and activities of the association are conducted by the officers, the executive committee, and the alumni council. The council is comprised of a representative from each class; he is elected by the members of his class for a term of two years.

The association has flourished and expanded rapidly. There are active alumni regional clubs located in the South Shore (Massachusetts), Worcester, Western Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine, New York City, Philadelphia, and Chicago. Although independent and socially-minded, these clubs have a deep interest in the University, its activities, and policies. Each of you should contact the secretary of the club in your area as soon as possible after graduation. In that way, your name will be added to the club's mailing list and you will be notified of all of its activities. The addresses of the secretaries of the clubs active, at present, are here listed. Several clubs were deactivated due to the war and are in the process of being reorganized. If there is no active club in your area, the Alumni Association will be most happy to assist you and your friends in forming a club. Any information concerning regional clubs or proposed clubs is readily available from the Alumni Office at Northeastern.

Members of the Alumni Association pay no dues, but instead assist in the development of the University through annual contributions to the Alumni Fund. These active members receive the quarterly magazine, The Northeastern Alumnus, containing all the latest news of Northeastern, their classmates, and all alumni activities.

Two social functions are sponsored each year; the Fall Dinner Meeting and the Annual Alumni Day held in conjunction with the June Commencement. Each class holds a reunion every five years with members being kept closely in touch during the five-year period by class letters containing news of classmates.

The Alumni Association sponsors two annual awards to the outstanding students. The first of these is the Annual Alumni Award consisting of a book prize valued at not less than fifty dollars and is presented at the Alumni Convocation in the spring of each year. The Deans plus two members of the teaching faculty select the candidate based upon his demonstration of all-around capabilities, such as activities, cooperative work, studies, general conduct, etc. His scholastic average should be at least 2.5. The presentation of the first book prize award was made in April, 1947 to Richard W. Newcomb.

The second award, the Alumni Perpetual Track Trophy, was originated in 1931. It is presented each year to the track athlete, who, through his performance in the sport, ability to get along with his teammates, co-operation with the coaching staff, scholarship, character, and sportsmanship, proves himself to be most worthy of the award. The 1947 recipient was Delmo F. Alberghini, the New England intercollegiate 220-yard low-hurdle champion.

Various committees of the association perform valuable services. The Committee on Student Activities endeavors to keep in touch with the students of the University and to know their problems. A recently created Committee of Placement will coordinate relations between alumni and the Placement Department. The Publication Committee is doing a splendid piece of work turning out the quarterly magazine, The Northeastern Alumnus. This fine college magazine has improved with each issue and is now a publication avidly read and proudly displayed by any alumnus. Other committees, such as the Aim and Policies, Admissions, and Social Committees, are constantly at work serving all alumni.

The Alumni Office is located in Room 252 of Richards Hall and all are invited to make it their headquarters when visiting Northeastern.
